Visco Elastic, or "memory", foam is a unique product that reacts to your body's heat and conforms to the shape of your body. As you lie on the mattress heat and pressure from your body cause you to sink into the mattress. This results in the mattress coming into contact with your body at virtually all points. In many ways this can be similar to the support offered by a waterbed. For some people this can be very good for relieving problems resulting from pressure points, but for those needing a firmer support other constructions may be better. Due to the way Visco Foam conforms to your body and almost envelopes you some people describe this as a cozy and warm feeling. Those who like a cooler and airier feeling many times prefer surfaces that you sleep more on top of than in. Daly Bros. offers the Visco Foam mattress as an alternative to conventional mattresses, but as with any mattress it's unique features need to be evaluated when considering your specific sleeping habits.
